

Access data at point-of-need with Accurint® for Healthcare

Direct access to LexisNexis industry-leading data on people, providers and businesses helps you search smarter, not harder.

Critical information is available at your fingertips to facilitate patient care, comply with government regulations and optimize financial outcomes

Today's healthcare organizations face pressing challenges to improve patient care, comply with government regulations and optimize financial outcomes while competing effectively in an evolving market. There is a lot at stake, and the need for efficiency and accuracy at every stage has never been greater. This new world requires new tools—solutions that work faster, better and smarter when you need them.

LexisNexis® Accurint® for Healthcare: Point-of-need information on people, providers and businesses

Accurint for Healthcare is a powerful solution that works when and where you need it to gain access to industry leading data assets, all at your fingertips. With Accurint for Healthcare, organizations can:

Access patient and business contact information including addresses, phone numbers and e-mail addresses.

Validate the professional licenses of healthcare providers nationwide, with uniquely in-depth information on board certifications, licensing, legal standing and criminal records.

Identify connections among people, businesses and assets, visualizing these relationships using sophisticated mapping tools.

Track down suspicious individuals and businesses using contact information and locate past associates.

Unparalleled data and linking capabilities for a clear look into individuals, providers and businesses

Accurint for Healthcare provides direct access to LexisNexis industry-leading data assets. LexisNexis has the largest collection of identity information in the United States.

Our data also includes information particularly relevant for healthcare analytics:

- Provider licensure, sanctions and certifications
- Hospital and group practice affiliations
- Criminal background
- Death records
- Family members and known associates

Accurint for Healthcare takes all this data and not only aggregates it, but integrates it into high-confidence linking for a single ID, known as the LexID® for both people and businesses, giving you the comprehensive, yet detailed, insight you need.

LexisNexis Accurint for Healthcare puts the data you need at your fingertips, when you need it most. With vast stores of data assets for critical information requirements and superior architecture for fast retrieval, Accurint for Healthcare helps organizations meet the changing demands of an evolving healthcare environment.

Incomplete and outdated information can jeopardize patient care, lead to costly fines from regulators and risk financial losses from fraud, waste and abuse.
