

Make better risk decisions with Telematics OnDemand

Unlock the power of connected car data at the point of quote.

Quickly assess driver risk and price with greater precision using Telematics OnDemand

Telematics data derived from connected vehicles can yield valuable driving behavior insights that lead to improved customer acquisition and retention. LexisNexis Telematics OnDemand provides carriers with seamless, near real-time delivery of actionable driving behavior attributes to power better-informed, more efficient quoting and underwriting.

Telematics OnDemand can help improve quoting and underwriting by:

- Giving you immediate access to driver behavior data for faster, more precise pricing
- Streamlining your workflow through single point of entry access to relevant data
- Allowing you to create robust predictive models to better serve consumers

With Telematics OnDemand, you'll know more about customers and prospects sooner so you can more accurately assess risk, price with precision and deliver a better customer experience.

LexisNexis® Telematics OnDemand

Using telematics based driving behavior and vehicle data, Telematics OnDemand provides normalized connected car attributes to use in policy pricing, discounting, and underwriting – no monitoring period required.

Features and benefits

Get immediate access to driving behavior data

Telematics data is available to you as early as point of quote.

Enjoy single point of entry convenience

Driving behavior attributes are delivered seamlessly via LexisNexis® Auto Data Prefill or standalone system-to-system. The solution uses the same delivery mechanism as other LexisNexis auto insurance-related solutions.

Please customers with a personalized experience

By incorporating detailed telematics-based insights into your quoting and underwriting processes, you can offer customers pricing and policy options that better align with their driving habits.

Create predictive models with confidence

Underwriters and data analysts can take advantage of new, robust data sources to create or enhance predictive risk models.

Gain peace of mind by working with a trusted solution provider

LexisNexis Risk Solutions is committed to regulatory compliance and helping carriers better serve consumers.
