Case Study:
One of the World’s Largest Investment Banks Relies on LexisNexis® for International Compliance

Overview
One of the world’s largest international investment banks.

The Challenge
In response to today’s increased regulatory climate, this financial institution performed a self-audit of thousands of international banking transactions completed over the course of two years. The organization analyzed several criteria (e.g., the account holders, banks, country in which these banks reside, recipients, type of transactions) and discovered that it needed to improve its fraud prevention and KYC (Know Your Customer) programs.

The Solution
Together with our global partners, LexisNexis® offers this investment bank an advanced due diligence solution—LexisNexis® Bridger Insight™ XG—that provides the investigative intelligence necessary to evaluate the legality of international transactions. With access to unparalleled global data and resources, the solution validates the entity and individuals associated with every transaction. The solution facilitates full compliance with the USA PATRIOT Act, and, even more importantly, the LexisNexis solution helps preserve the integrity of the financial institution by identifying suspicious behavior and giving the institution the opportunity to proactively terminate relationships with these people or entities.

The Results
- Gives the bank the tools it needs to have complete knowledge about international transactions and the people and entities who initiate them.
- Provides enhanced due diligence from domestic online sources, domestic jurisdiction and court records and international investigative resources.
- Enables the investment bank to fulfill the requirements of the PATRIOT Act and maintain compliance.
- Protects the integrity of the financial institution by enabling the organization to proactively take steps to protect the clients’ assets.
